

Judges Tips

We are blessed with a great variety of styles and sizes of front gardens, which gives everyone the opportunity to participate.

You might find the tips below useful:

1. We judge on the thought, the effort and content in the garden.
The size of the garden is irrelevant, but it must contribute to the well-being of the village and our wildlife.
2. Front gardens are a feature of the character of the village. A wildlife garden does not have to look like a wilderness. It can be neat and tidy whilst meeting the needs of wildlife, such as shelter, food and water.
3. Garden designers use a 40% ratio of themed area to 60% open space, such as lawn or patio. Thus, if you want to use containers or pots in a small garden it is important to bear this ratio in mind to achieve a more interesting rather than cluttered appearance.
4. It is your garden and you make the choices. If you are making changes, try to think long term by using perennials. You will not be marked down because your perennials are immature.
5. The scarecrow is the fun bit. Try to involve children or grandchildren where possible.

The Front Gardens Competition is part of our endeavours, through community effort, to enjoy our village for the benefit of everyone and the environment in which we live.
